

INJUNCTION ARGUMENTS HEARD DISTRESS IN BERLIN INCREASES

Judge May Defer Final Decision On Restraining Order

Arguments on Motion to Quash Involve Citations
From Other Cases—Hearing Likely to Last All Day—Pros and Cons Are Fully Gone Into.

Arguments were begun shortly before eleven o'clock this morning on the motion to dissolve the temporary restraining order issued a few days ago against the Co-Operative Marketing Association at the request of the local auction men. About one hundred farmers are listening to the proceedings which are being heard by Judge Price Withers in the Corporation Court.

Indications early this afternoon were that the hearing would last well through the afternoon and that the arguments might not be terminated even then.

It was by no means certain that Judge Withers would render an immediate decision on the question of dissolving or making permanent the ninety-day temporary restraining organization or officers of the law. The fact that the arguments presented were technical and involved the study of parallel cases and their application to the local issue inclined some to believe that the court would take the matter under advisement. It would require several days it was said to digest the citations offered the court by both sides.

The commonwealth's attorney was the first to argue for dissolution of the injunction on the ground that he was a public officer and that the court was without jurisdiction in restraining him. His argument terminated, the fight settled down between the Co-Operative Marketing Association attorneys and those representing the auction warehousemen, the rival lawyers alternating in the presentation of their pleas.

Widespread interest in the outcome was manifested. Telephone calls reached the Bee office from many surrounding points asking for news of the outcome.

Proceedings did not begin until nearly eleven o'clock or pending the arrival of out-of-town attorneys. Judge Withers heard the arguments in the mayor's court room, the corporation courtroom being otherwise used for election purposes today. About one hundred farmers were present to listen to the arguments, it being said by a competent observer that the auction forces were equally divided among the "Co-ops."

Before the proceedings began John Martin, of Houston, and W. T. Jarner, of North Carolina, were introduced to the court and qualified. They with Harry Wooding, Jr., appeared for the Co-Operative Marketing Association while Messrs. Julian and Edwin Meade appeared for the warehousemen.

Next came an exchange of papers and affidavits. Counsel for the Association furnished a lengthy reply to the original bill filed by the counsel for the warehousemen which the allegations set forth in the original bill were denied. Mr. Meade entered a formal objection to its incorporation in the record on the ground that they were merely argumentative.

This was taken the way was paved for arguments.

Commonwealth's attorney, one of the Co-Operative Marketing Association, was permitted to open and he spoke for an hour, during which time he elaborated on his previous submitted written reply, contending that the court did not have the right to enjoin him from enforcing an act of the legislature. He pointed out that he was not in any way involved in the differences between the rival factions but that as a public officer he felt that he could not legally be restrained from enforcing the law. He rehearsed the provisions of the cooperative marketing law, declaring that it was enacted with a view to preventing fraud, and he contended that even if the law were unconstitutional, he questioned the right of the court to enjoin him since the peace and welfare of the community was not involved. The commonwealth's attorney then placed into technical phases of the marketing law and discussed its constitutionality, claiming that it was unconstitutional, and he contended that the Virginia marketing law gave the right to inspect the secret records of either the auction men or the Co-Operative Marketing Association, and that it simply defined that the public should have the right to know whose tobacco was being sold. The Virginia legislature, he stated, accepted as a fact that the auction system of tobacco is a business impressed with a public use.

Mr. Carter was followed by Harry Wooding, Jr., who elaborated on the reply he made to the injunction motion not long after it was issued. Mr. Wooding went into the question of the marketing law's constitutionality and the whole question of the court's jurisdiction in restraining the enforcement of a state law.

Julian Meade followed Mr. Wooding in support of the original contention of the warehousemen that the enforcement of the marketing law would drive them out of business and that as the law now operates it is in violation of the fourteenth amendment of the constitution.

It was expected that either Mr. Martin or Mr. Jarner would follow Mr. Meade after dinner and that Edwin Meade would conclude for the warehousemen.

While the crowd in the courtroom this morning remained throughout the proceedings, the arguments were (Continued on Page Three.)

BANDIT PARTY ROBS 2 BANKS; TOWN EXCITED

(By The Associated Press.)
SPENCER, Ind., Nov. 6.—A band of robbers, variously estimated in number from fourteen to twenty, robbed two banks here early today of approximately $15,000 and wounded two citizens. Traveling in four automobiles, the robbers first isolated the town by cutting all telephone and telegraph wires, then posted guards to prevent interruption while they blew open the bank vaults.

The bandits remained in the town more than an hour and in gaining access to the bank vaults used general explosive charges, almost wrecking one of the buildings. The banks entered were the National Bank of Spencer and the Exchange State Bank.

Before the bandits left the town a citizen rang the town fire bell. Persons who left their homes in response to this alarm, were driven back by a volley of shots fired by the robbers. J. A. Barge, a baker, and Frank Gray, a second-hand dealer, were wounded slightly.

Addition to cutting lines of communication, the bandits severed electric light wires, leaving the town in darkness.

William Vaughan, nightwatchman, who was bound and gagged by the bandits when they entered the town, said he was told by one of the captors that there were twenty men in the party. He was seized about three o'clock a. m., he said, and the robbers remained until four a. m.

Spencer is the county seat of Owen county and has a population of 2,500.

RANKS OF LONDON STREET HAWKERS GROWING THINNER

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Street hawkers who reap their richest harvest when the American tourists descend upon London, will soon become a tradition, and the children's "walk of delight" up and down Ladgate Hill the week before Christmas will be a path of sad memories.

Unless there is a reprieve the city hawker will become extinct because since 1911 no fresh licenses have been issued to hawkers and many of the hawkers of that date are dead or too infirm to carry on their trade. At death, a hawker's badge is reclaimed by the police and not reissued to anyone else.

The reason for the withdrawal of the badges is stated to be the advent of the wide-beamed motor buses and taxicabs which are considered to have made the hawker's trade a danger to himself and others.

Begin Inquiry Of Cotton Industry

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, November 6.—All phases of the cotton industry were represented here today at the opening of the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry into conditions and practices in the industry. Information obtained will guide the commission in recommendations it will make to Congress for legislation in response to a resolution by the Senate on the subject last winter.

Commission members said they planned to allow a full statement of all views on the subject of trading, trade practices, warehouse deliveries and financing. Indications were that the meeting would occupy three days.

CHEST CAMPAIGN WILL START HERE TOMORROW

A miniature army of workers will begin a systematic drive in Danville tomorrow to collect subscriptions to the Danville Community Chest which seeks $65,000 for the sustenance of nine local organizations for the ensuing year.

A big meeting and supper at the Y. M. C. A. tonight beginning at 7:30 o'clock will formally open the campaign, which will begin in earnest tomorrow morning and continue through November 14th.

The meeting will be presided over by Col. A. B. Carrington with C. G. Holland, associate chairman. Captains and workers will be given instructions, also a list of prospects.

The plans along the same lines of last year will be carried out. Reports will be made each day at one o'clock at a dinner to be held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

A large score-board has been placed in front of the postoffice on which from day to day, figures will be given showing the work of the various teams.

Officers of the organization announced this morning that a ten per cent. distribution has been made on last year's drive. It was also stated that ninety per cent. of last year's pledges have been paid.

Much interest is being shown not only by the workers but also the citizens in general and the campaign is expected to be a big success.

Citizens Today to Decide Fate of the Bond Issue In State

Inclement Weather Responsible For Light Voting This Morning in Danville and County—Ballots Also Being Cast for Candidates to Various Offices.

The vote by wards in Danville at two o'clock this afternoon stood:

First Ward	70
Second Ward	152
Third Ward	40
Fourth Ward	155
Fifth Ward	35
Sixth Ward	45
Total	497

The polls will close at 5:15 P. M.

Voting in today's election at which Virginia will determine the fate of the fifty million dollars bond issue was proceeding lightly this morning. The bad weather was considered partly responsible for the apathy noted at the various city voting precincts but it was expected that during the afternoon that voting would become heavier. Reports from the county also were to the effect that the voting was light.

Those opposed to the issuance of bonds on the theory that the taxation of posterity is unwarranted at this time claimed that the bond issue would be defeated.

The forces favoring the bond issue felt encouraged, however, and the opinion prevailed among them that the bad weather today would greatly help the piling up of a good vote. The view was expressed that those opposed to the bonds might be deterred from going to the polls but those in favor of it would not be so deterred. Eleventh hour changes on account of the condition of the roads was also believed by the pro-bond forces as something to be reckoned with. Danville voters are not only passing on the road question and the local representation in the state Senate and House and representatives but also for a state corporation commissioner, Alexander Forward, the Democratic nominee, and an appointee of former Governor H. C. Stuart being opposed by Cloyd Byars termed an independent.

There is one local officer being elected today he being R. M. Foster, high constable. Enquiry as to why his name did not appear on the primary ballot revealed that Col. Eob through an oversight failed to file his name (Continued on Page Four.)

PRES. COOLIDGE ISSUES THANKSGIVING APPEAL

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Coolidge's Thanksgiving Day proclamation, issued today from the White House, calls to mind that the year has brought to the American people two tragic experiences—the death of President Harding and the Japanese earthquake—but says that such experiences serve to test and refine men and nations.

During the year, also, the proclamation says, the nation has been blessed with much of material prosperity.

The president asked that the people either in their homes and places of worship on Thursday, November 22, to give expression to their gratitude and seek the guidance of a higher God that they may deserve a continuance of His favor.

The proclamation follows:

By the President of the United States of America.

A proclamation.

My people, from their earliest days have observed the wise custom of acknowledging each year the bounty with which Divine Providence has favored them. In the beginning, this acknowledgment was a voluntary return of thanks for the bounty of the harvest though our mode of life is greatly changed this custom has always survived. It has made Thanksgiving Day not only one of the dearest but one of the most characteristic observances of our country. On that day, in home and church, in family and in public gathering, the whole nation has for generations paid the tribute due from grateful hearts for blessings bestowed.

To center our thought in this way upon the favor which we have been shown is altogether wise and desirable. It has given opportunity justly to balance the good and the evil which we have experienced. In that we have never failed to find reasons for being grateful to God for a generous preponderance of the good. Even in the least propitious times a broad contemplation of our whole position has never failed to disclose overwhelming reasons for thankfulness. Thus viewing our situation, we have found warrant for a more hopeful and confident attitude toward the future.

In this current year we now approach the time which has been accepted by custom as most fitting for the calm survey of our estate and the return of thanks. We shall feel that we have received our good fortune, if we will, in deep sincerity, give to it due thought, and more especially, if we will compare it with that of any other community in the world. The year has brought to our people two tragic experiences which have deeply affected them. One was the death of our beloved President Harding, which has been mourned wherever there is a realization of the worth of high ideals, noble purpose and unselfish service carried even to the end of supreme sacrifice. His loss recalled the nation to a less captious and more charitable attitude. It sobered the whole thought of the country. A little later came the unparalleled disaster to the friendly people of Japan this called forth from the people of the United States a demonstration of deep and humane feeling. It was wrought into the substance of good works. It created new evidences of our international friendship, which is a (Continued on Page Four.)

Convicts In Bold Dash For Liberty

Four Make Desperate Attempt—One Killed, One Captured, Leaving Two At Large.

(By The Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Two of the four convicts who last night made a bold dash for liberty from the Eastern State Penitentiary were still at large today. One was shot and killed by a prison guard who had been knocked down with a blow from a blackjack and one was captured after an exciting chase in which many pistol shots were exchanged. Police are searching the city for the fugitives.

The four convicts, Joseph Lorimer, Francis Flynn, Emil Braden and George Duback, had been detailed to work in the administration building and at 10:45 p. m. left the second floor to be returned to their cells. In the narrow passage way between the inside and outside gates, they made a sudden attack on Hugh O'Neill, a guard, hurling him to the floor. One of the convicts fired four shots at him, none of which took effect.

At the foot of the stairs, they were attacked by Joseph Gilbert, another guard, who was felled with a blow from the butt of a pistol, but who from the floor opened fire and shot Lorimer dead. Other guards rushed to the scene but were overpowered and the three remaining convicts ran to the small door leading into Fairmount avenue. The penitentiary officials said they had been unable to learn how the prisoners obtained the pistols. A further investigation was under way today.

DaBack was captured an hour after the escape hiding in an alley behind an incinerator plant. He was taken back to prison and the case for the others was extended to every section of the city.

Violent Debates Enliven Meeting

(By The Associated Press)
BELGRADE, Nov. 6.—Summoned recently to consider minor taxation problems, the Yugoslavian Skupstina, or parliament, developed a stormy session far beyond the estimated period of only a few uneventful days.

The Skupstina, with its representation of all classes in the state, furnishes a good picture of the population of Yugoslavia. Among the most outspoken members are peasants in native costume who take a prominent part in the discussions.

The Slavonian group had a lively passage at arms with the true, or "pravi," Serbians, the other day, when the Slavonian deputy Vretchko, complaining of the measures of repression adopted by the radical government, threatened to shoot the life under Austria was much more livable than it is under Serbia.

Tankovitch, the minister of communications, thereupon stirred up a storm by inviting Vretchko and his fellow Slavonians to dine at his home if they did not like living in Serbia.

The opposition, greeted the government's invitation with cat-calls and the slamming of desk-covers while the Serbians roared loudly.

The scene reminded one observer of the old days in the Austrian legislature, when the same radical battles were fought.

New Scientific Instruments Show Two Stars Twice As Hot As Sun

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Using a radiometer used on the same principle as the little toy of black and silver vanes which revolves in the optician's window, Dr. G. G. Abbott of the Smithsonian Institution has succeeded in measuring the heat of the stars to the hundred millionth degree.

The experiments, which were carried on at Mount Wilson, California, with the aid of the great 100 inch reflector there began in duty and the results are regarded by Smithsonian officials here as of the highest importance to scientists.

Nine stars were measured, Rigol, Vega, Sirius, Caperna, Procyon, Aldebaran, Betelgeuse, Alpha, Hercules and Beta Pegasi, representing the principal types from the blue down to the very red ones.

Astronomers have a very definite impression, said a statement at the institution, "based on other kinds of studies, as to what sort of results might be expected from these heat spectrum investigations. But the outcome proved a great surprise. For instance, Sirius and Vega are classified as both blue white hydrogen stars, with few lines showing in their photographs spectra and both supposedly nearly twice as hot as the sun. Judge of the astonishment of the Mount Wilson observers to find that Vega shows its maximum spectral heat a great way further toward the violet than the Sirius whose maximum heat is not very much nearer the violet than that of our sun. Still more remarkable is Rigol, for it shows two maxima. One occurs, as expected, quite as far towards the violet as that of Vega. But the other, more gratifying, occurs very near that of the sun."

The new study, astronomers believe, will give a lever to attack the difficult task of learning the physical nature of the stars, although it was said that although the present distance can measure one one hundred millionths of a degree, the instrument for next year's work must be able to measure the billionth of a degree or better.

The instrument used known as the Nicholas Radiometer, consists of two vanes suspended by a thread of quartz fibers each one-tenth-thousandth of an inch thick. When moved by a beam of light on one vane, the other vane is deflected and communicated to a microscopic mirror and a beam of light was reflected on a scale.

Reparations Issue Is Still In Dark

Jusserand Lays French View Before Hughes But Outcome of Conference Is Held Secret.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Washington government presumably was informed in detail today of the position of France with respect to the proposed new inquiry into the reparations question. Whether Ambassador Jusserand, in the lengthy conversation in which he presented the views of his government to Secretary Hughes yesterday, had indicated any possibility of a concession in its many years of the study by executive experts had not been disclosed.

A veil of official secrecy has been thrown over this latest development in the situation. Neither the French ambassador nor the American secretary, who later conferred with President Coolidge on their conversation, would discuss the matter. The White House also was silent on the matter.

It thus appeared that neither side regarded the issue as closed, and that the negotiations would continue on the French position which in its insistence that the inquiry be limited to the "present" capacity of Germany to pay was understood here to be the only obstacle to a final agreement.

Before the French ambassador went to the State Department, information had reached officials here that Great Britain, Italy and Belgium had reached an accord on the form of an invitation for American participation in the inquiry. The accord, pressed by a government spokesman that France could be induced to join in a full inquiry but no indication was given as to what course the United States might pursue should the allied governments fail to reach an agreement.

CONVERSATION MAKES PLEASING IMPRESSION

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, Nov. 6.—Ambassador Jusserand's cable report on his conversation with Secretary of State Hughes in Washington yesterday received by Premier Poincaré today was said at the foreign office to have made a pleasing impression there, although nothing in the ambassador's dispatch indicated what Secretary Hughes may have observed in answer to the ambassador's full statement of the French position on reparations generally and on the proposed expert committee in particular. The tone of the conversation was such, however, it was remarked by a high official at the Quai d'Orsay, as to make incomprehensible the dispatches received from Washington by way of London tending to show that Secretary Hughes and President Coolidge had taken a decisive attitude on the scope of the committee's inquiry.

These dispatches are causing great irritation in French official circles where their German negotiators are endeavoring to isolate France and oblige her to accept the British plan of reparation and abandon a considerable part of her claim on Germany without any consideration.

Dispatches from London declaring Great Britain's refusal to join in an inquiry to oppose the French point of view are considered as part of the same offensive.

A high official declared it was preposterous to think that allies possessing less than half the total claims on Germany could settle reparations problem independently of France, whose interest was more than half.

Believe Charred Body Is One Of Several Missing Alabama Girls

(By The Associated Press)
TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 6.—Because of several girls being reported missing in the state, officials are now working on the clue that the charred body found in a forest near here last Tuesday night was that of a Birmingham department store worker.

All Winchester, who was arrested Sunday and lodged in the county jail here on a charge of murder in connection with the case is said to have come down on a train Tuesday night with a woman. He stoutly denies any connection with the crime.

Remains of the girl which had been buried in potters' field have been disinterred. Among those who have inspected the charred body was a Blocton Alabama, man who partially recognized it as that of the missing Birmingham woman, who is his stepdaughter.

The remains as found in the church showed that the woman's skull had been crushed and her ribs broken, indicating to authorities that she was a victim of foul play before the fire.

Death Threat Gov. Walton Received Was Only a Joke

(By The Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6.—The "death threat" Governor J. C. Walton said he received, causing him to leave the courtroom suddenly last Friday during the second day's session of his impeachment trial, was a joke, he said today.

Mr. Walton said he was not disturbed by the "joke" and did not return for the remainder of the afternoon session. He declined to divulge the contents of the package, telling newspaper men he had been insulted and that his life had been threatened.

The executive is to appear before the Senate tomorrow afternoon to enter a formal plea to the 22 charges of official misconduct. The trial proper is scheduled to begin Thursday with the introduction of testimony. Investigation into other departments of state, by a House impeachment committee, continued today.

Lower California Shaken By Quake

(By The Associated Press)
CALEXICO, Calif., Nov. 6.—Shattered windows, fallen plaster, and twisted foundations remain as reminders to residents of this border city of yesterday's earthquake, the worst the Imperial Valley has experienced in several years.

Three tremors, the first of pronounced violence and the other two of diminishing intensity, left reinforced concrete pillars in front of one large store bent out of shape and the Virginia Hotel several inches out of place on its foundation.

In the United States immigration station a portion of the ceiling fell and in Mexicali, across the international line, brick and adobe walls left standing after the disastrous shock. Last July were toppled by the shocks.

Brawley, near here, felt the quake but no damage was reported. No casualties were reported throughout the shaken area.

Parsih Trial On Second Day

(By The Associated Press)
BASTROP, La., Nov. 6.—Eleven citizens of Morehouse Parish, charged with misdemeanors in bills of information filed by Attorney General Cocco in connection with operations of hooded bands in the Parish last year, today were to face Judge Fred M. F. Richard, of Mer Rouge, on August 24, a year ago.

Four of those to appear today were found guilty yesterday of "carrying firearms on the premises of another" in connection with a raid on the home of Abner B. Broussard, a farmer, who was suspected of being engaged in making whiskey.

GRAND JURY DELAYS REPORT ON COAL CO.

The grand jury, which was adjourned yesterday evening to meet this morning to sign a number of indictments, the nature of which is not definite, was ordered last night not to return until Wednesday morning. This was done following an explanation into the law and the consequent belief expressed that a grand jury could not be required to sit on election day. While there possibly would have been no objection on the part of the grand jurors to returning for what promises to be a matter of a few moments' work only, it was felt wisest to conform to the strict letter of the law lest the indictments which are to be returned be invalidated in the consequent defense action.

The rule was held not to apply to the hearing of motions to quash the restraining order against the Cooperative Marketing Association since this session of court was set by consent of both parties involved.

The grand jury yesterday evening furnished something of a surprise by returning indictments charging assault against Frank D. Lumpkin, postmaster of the city, and Elsie Daly. These indictments were the result of the appearance before the grand jury early yesterday afternoon of B. R. Powell, of Gretna, who claims to have been attacked by the postmaster in the office of the collector of the federal revenue in the federal building and Harry Berman who claimed to have been struck in the postmaster's private office by Mr. Daly.

In the Daly case, it developed, Mr. Berman was an unwilling witness and was compelled to go before the grand jury after his appearance in the grand jury room Mr. Berman stated that he had requested that no indictment be returned and that if necessary he would assume the blame for the encounter as he had been told that Mr. Daly's position in the postoffice was at stake and that if an indictment was returned he would be dismissed.

It further developed that Mr. Daly had made "amende honorable" by going to Mr. Berman's office and there making an apology for the episode a few days ago. It is reported that Mr. Daly was given three days' time in which to show cause why he should not be removed. The grand jury summons, Mr. Berman stated, was a surprise to him as he had hoped that the matter had been disposed of. Some of the witnesses whose names are not revealed, called the attention of the commonwealth's attorney to the fact that two assaults had been committed in the postoffice and that while the facts were generally known the local authorities had not moved to make investigation of them, both warrants being filed away in police headquarters. The police and mayor are understood not to have acted in the belief that they had no jurisdiction on government property and that it was a matter of the commonwealth's attorney went on record, however, after the alleged assaults that the local police have jurisdiction and can maintain the peace in the postoffice as they can anywhere else in the city.

In Mr. Lumpkin's case it was understood that the postmaster was disposed of since several weeks ago he expressed the intention of submitting to the assault charge and paying any fine imposed. This was not done and now a jury-will hear the case. The same procedure will apply in Mr. Daly's case unless "amende honorable" succeeds in having his case removed to the jurisdiction of the federal court.

Mr. Daly has been in the local postoffice service for twenty years and is understood to have a blameless record until the time that he acted jointly with Mr. Berman. Postoffice inspectors came here several weeks ago and made an enquiry and then left here. The next indication of federal activity came with the threat that unless Mr. Daly could show cause why he should not be removed he would be dismissed.

Speculation now turns on whether a dismissal in Mr. Daly's case would be followed by similar steps in the case of the postmaster who is a Republican leader in the fifth district and who is usually consulted by Republican leaders in patronage matters. The assaults as recorded at the time are identical in several particulars.

It is probable that steps will be taken to relieve Mr. Daly of the loss of his position, for Mr. Berman notified the court yesterday that he intended to file a written statement in which he will say that he has no grievance against Mr. Daly and does not wish to appear against him.

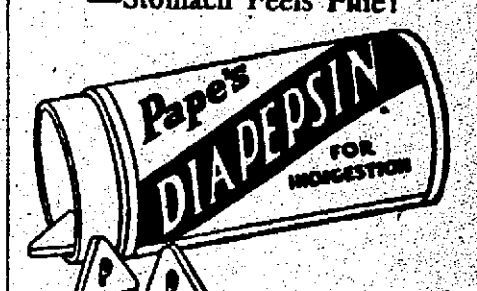

The matter pending before the grand jury is understood to be the methods resorted to in the selling of stock in the First National Coal Corporation of West Virginia. During the course of yesterday evening more than a dozen men who were understood to have bought stock appeared before the grand jury. When the grand jury appeared in court at half past five o'clock, it was stated by the foreman Elsie Gwynn, that it still had to sign some indictments to be prepared by the Commonwealth's attorney and it was concluded that since no report was made on the coal company's findings that the impending indictments will refer to this corporation. It is understood that the sum of $10,000 was subscribed in stock by Danville people.

Pres. Coolidge Issues Annual Appeal

guarantee of world peace. It replenished the charitable impulse of the country.

By experiences such as these, men and nations are tested and refined. We have been blessed with much of material prosperity. We shall be better able to appreciate it if we remember the privations others have suffered, and if we use it for their relief.

We will do well then to render thanks for the good that has come to us, and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser, and truer by the challenges which have been imposed upon us. We will thus prepare ourselves for the part we must take in a world which forever needs the full measure of service. We have been a most favored people. We ought to be a most grateful people.

Wherefore, I Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby fix and designate Thursday, the twenty-ninth day of November, as Thanksgiving Day, and recommend its general observance throughout the land. It is urged that the people get together in their homes and their places of business, give expression to their gratitude for the benefits and blessings that a Gracious Providence has bestowed upon them, and seek the guidance of Almighty God that they may deserve a continuance of his favor.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the United States.
Done at the City of Washington, this 5th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and forty-eighth.

Chestertown, Md.—"I suffered four months with a severe case of rheumatism. The doctors continued to do me no good. My knees and left foot were swollen twice their natural size and pained me very severely. I was unable to walk, and was compelled to use crutches after lying in bed three weeks. Acting upon my mother's advice, I tried Dr. Pierce's Ankle Pain-Relief. From the first dose or so I started improving and am now able to work as before."—Howard Clarke.

HAT RETURNS FOR EVENING WEAR

By MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Up to this season we have not had to worry about putting an appropriation for the evening hat into our clothes budget.

Before going to the opera or hop or whatever function seemed to call for a display of our evening finery we needed only to arrange our locks in the most becoming fashion and concentrate the expense on the gown and wrap.

This season promises to be different, for the evening hat is back and because of its novelty designers are inclined to make the most of it.

The evening chapel may be just a glorified framework of beads, preferably pearls, jet or rhinestones, with much hair revealed.

It may be a turban of gorgeous gold or silver cloth, draped becomingly about the face and minus a crown, so that the well brushed hair may be revealed.

It may be some novel variation of the bandeau, or a headress of feathers and lace, or a ruff of black lace wired to make a wide frame for the face.

In Paris, where the cloche hat is so firmly established in the favor of the fashionable woman, this model is also developed in evening models of satin or metal cloth with a huge bow of mauline or lace perched in the middle of the crown to give an effect of richness and contrast.

Frequently the hat is the point of concentration for all the color of the costume, and brilliant greens, American beauty and sapphire blue turbans are most effective with the black velvet and satin-backed crepe gowns that are so prevalent.

The Egyptian effect, although it has been greatly overworked, is decidedly not passed when it comes to headresses, and jeweled bands with jeweled medallions and drops over the ears are seen on some of the most fashionable women of New York and Paris.

Another pleasing effect is the Russian cap with a shaped band encrusted with jewels, mounted on a sort of skeleton crown of velvet or gold or silver cords.

With nearly all types of evening hats the hair is worn as sleek and highly polished as possible, and all effects of softness are obtained by the hat rather than with the hair.

Good Morning Judge!

Majority of the cases on the Police court docket for trial this morning were for gambling. Two raids made last night netted thirteen on gambling charges. One of the raids conducted by Sergeant J. H. Martin and a squad of his men on Stokes street netted five white men. They were E. F. Smith, J. C. Womack, L. W. Franklin, E. W. Sams and Banks Murrie. Fines of six dollars and costs were imposed.

The other raid by Sergeant Martin resulted in the arrest of eight negroes. Fines of six dollars and costs were imposed in each instance. They were Fred Williams, Vellett Crews, James Blain, Hezekiah Harris, James Davis, Robert Mitchell, James C. Davis and Shadrach Murray were not present to answer the charges against them.

Arthur Motley, colored, was arraigned on a charge of criminal assault but won an acquittal for lack of evidence. The charge had been brought by the husband of Bettie Davis, who alleged that the attack was made on his wife. Motley had claimed that he had merely met with the negroes whom he at one time went with and that she immediately, after a long absence, threw her arms around him and fondly caressed him.

Meadow Hairston, colored, was assessed $5 and costs for not having proper tags on his machine. Charles Gray, colored, was fined $5 and costs on a charge of reckless driving and assault. An appeal was noted.

A fine of $10 and costs was imposed on Charles Neal, G. H. Tunstall for traffic violations while a similar charge against E. L. Rainey was dismissed at costs.

W. E. Gardney and Everett Jones were not present to answer charges of violating traffic ordinance and speeding respectively.

It was reported here yesterday that "A. Y. Bach" had been fined for speeding charge. The name should have read "Buck" instead of Bach as it appeared.

LARGE SUPPLIES OF COTTON EXPECTED FROM THE SUDAN
MANCHESTER, Nov. 5.—The growing of the American type of cotton in the Gezira area of the Sudan is developing rapidly and the output next year, it is estimated, will be double that of last year. It is 15 years time the Sudan will be producing a million bales of cotton a year.

These statements were made recently in London by Major-General Sir L. O. C. Stack, Governor General of the Sudan, who explained that the increased production would result from new development work, including the construction of a dam across the Nile which would bring an additional 30,000 acres of cotton under cultivation.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters.

I expect you are beginning to be bored, little Marquise, with all these descriptions of baby affairs, but I feel sorry, dear little shade of yesterday, that you never had the joy that I have been describing to you.

Sydney had to leave right after the christening. When we arrived home I found pinned just inside the baby's cloak a check for a thousand dollars and a tiny note saying, "A nest egg for my godchild. Watch the nest, fill up. The goose that laid this one will surely put others beside it."

Do you know, little Marquise, that I didn't even tell Jack I had found that money? I was so afraid that it would go just as the other five hundred had gone. That five hundred I had already replaced and deposited in the bank in John Jr.'s name. The next morning I added Sydney's check.

"I am glad you like old Syd," remarked Jack to me that night at dinner.

"I'm not sure that I do, Jack." "Why what's the matter? He is the salt of the earth. Almost every other woman is mad about him."

"Did I once strike you, Jack, that possibly your friend Sydney might be the father of little Jack?"

"Good Lord! Where did you get that idea?" My husband hastily got up from the table and walked to the window. I could see he was much moved but before I could decide why, he came back and standing behind my chair, he gripped my shoulders till I winced with pain.

"Never let such a thought enter your mind, Sydney Carter is the soul of honor. He would never foist his child even on me, his dearest friend."

"I wasn't speaking of foisting, Jack."

"So you think we cooked up the scheme between us?"

Just the same, dear little Marquise, I still think that Sydney Carter is little Jack's father, for surely, as only Jack's friend, he would not feel called upon to make the baby such a magnificent present as a thousand dollars.

The little Marquise, I am going to stop talking and conjecturing about Junior for a while. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

BERLIN WOMAN LIVES ON WEEDS; MUCH DESPAIR

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Prices here are hitting unheard of levels. The paper mark is hard to obtain and it will not buy anything when it is found. If one tries to purchase in paper a pound of meat costs close to $1 and bread is nearly 20 cents a loaf. Berlin is a jobless and poor who are without any resources of any kind are plunged into deeper despair.

One old woman with death from starvation written on her face said she had had only one loaf of bread in more than a month. She has been subsisting on refuse, weeds and a few vegetables from her small garden. This woman is one out of perhaps 2,000,000 persons within an hour's ride of Unter den Linden, where wealth is tossed away daily by speculators, who actually are facing death from undernourishment. To them the new drop of the mark in the past week is more than tragedy. It is their death sentence.

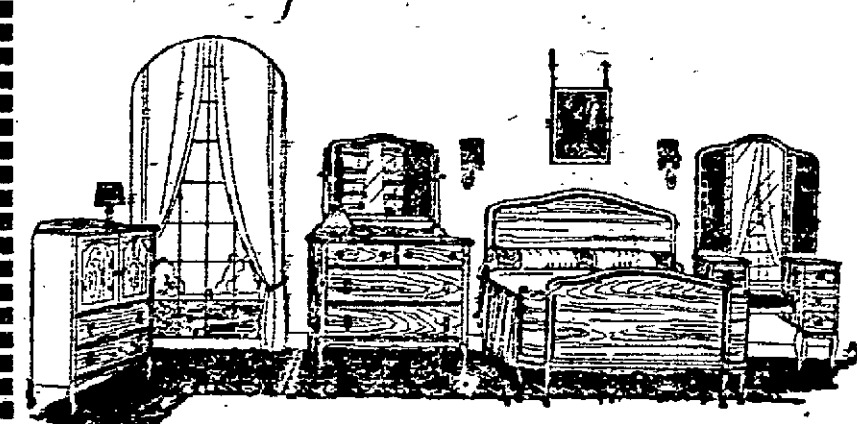

—Mrs. Nannie Estes, who has been on a visit of several weeks with relatives in Knoxville, is expected home this week.

GROOM ILL, WEDDING OCCURS IN HOSPITAL

WINCHESTER, Va., Nov. 5.—H. J. H. a suspicion that it may be due to a postoperative complication, the date had been set, Miss M. J. Trenary, of Ashby Station, Warren county, Virginia, came here yesterday, and was wedded to H. J. H. Marlowe, of Front Royal, Va., while the bridegroom lay in bed in Memorial hospital, where he underwent surgical operation earlier in the week. The ceremony, witnessed by only a few relatives of the couple, was performed by the Rev. J. F. Smith, of the Presbyterian church, of Stephens City, Va. Mr. Marlowe, who is a well-known stock dealer in Warren county, and Miss Trenary had arranged to be married yesterday in Washington, and plans for the ceremony there had been completed when, the latter part of last week the bridegroom was taken ill. He was brought to the hospital here and operated upon at once. He was reported to be greatly improved yesterday.

DEVELOPMENTS AFFECT EFFORTS TO AID FARMER

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—There were two important developments today affecting the administrative efforts to relieve the agricultural situation, particularly the wheat farmers. One was announced by a committee of railway executives that the recent request by President Coolidge for a voluntary reduction in freight rates on wheat for export would not be granted.

The other development was the formal filing of an application with the tariff commission looking to an increase in the duty on wheat by Representative Anderson (Republican), Minnesota, who is president of the wheat council of the United States. A committee of the railway executives, headed by Samuel R. Houston, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to whom President Coolidge personally urged advisability of a reduction in export wheat rates, came to Washington and made reply to the Interstate Commerce Commission. They did not see President Coolidge but submitted a brief to the commission.

Briefly the reasons set forth by the committee of executives for refusing the president's request were that any such reduction would almost certainly be met by the Canadian and Argentine wheat, thus making the cut in rates void as an asset to the American farmer, and that western railroads were not in a financial position to make any reductions. It had been found impracticable to confine reductions to the eastern roads, the executives held as "inevitably" the western roads would be forced to make corresponding reductions on wheat for export through the Gulf and Pacific ports.

Just what steps if any President Coolidge will take in new efforts to obtain relief for the wheat growers, now that his proposal for reducing rates on wheat for export has been rejected, is a matter of much speculation but there was no information obtainable tonight. The reply made by the railway executives to the Interstate Commerce Commission is accepted here as final and precluding any renewal of efforts to obtain relief in that direction.

To his application for an increase in the tariff on wheat, Representative Anderson attached tabulations to show that the cost of production in the United States has been so much greater than in Canada as to justify a recommendation to the president for issuance of an executive order increasing the duty on wheat to equalize costs.

Mr. Anderson also attaches to his application tables tending to show a freight rate advantage to the Canadian producer averaging from 2 1/2 to 3 cents per bushel, depending upon distance from the primary market. The fact that the spring wheat produced in Canada this year is on the average a better quality than the spring wheat produced in the United States Mr. Anderson says results in an additional advantage to the producer of five or six cents per bushel.

"The situation is further aggravated by an abandonment of wheat acreage in Kansas of 28 per cent, and in Nebraska of 25 per cent, and by the fact that the low yield in the spring wheat sections in Minnesota, North and South Dakota was preceded by three years of drought, 1919, 1920, and 1921, producing abnormally low yields," said Mr. Anderson. "Farmers who had capital were compelled to put it into the capital for operating expenses and those who had little or no capital have been obliged to go further and further into debt. This has resulted in tremendous increases in the delinquency of interest payments, foreclosures and bankruptcy among farmers."

MOVING OF NEGRO TO NORTH BRINGS ABOUT PROBLEMS

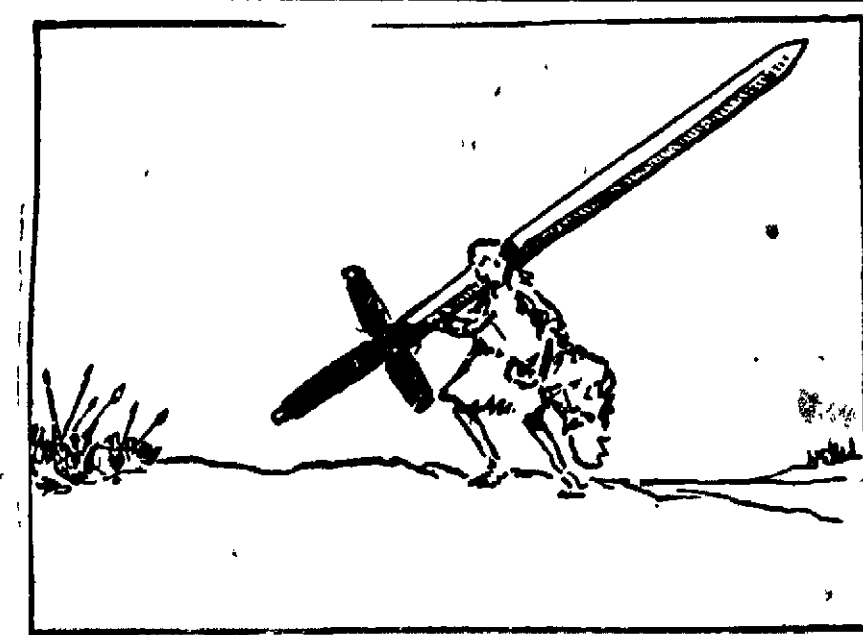

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Surveying the present migratory movement of negroes to the North which has stirred students of sociology, the National Industrial Conference Board, an organization affiliated with many large manufacturing concerns, tonight issued a report asserting that this year about 100,000 negroes had left their homes in the South. The present movement, the report set forth "is almost wholly industrial and has been to a considerable extent induced by the shortage of common labor in the North."

The board found that the normal annual movement was about 10,000. During 1916 and 1917, however, it was estimated that, in a wave of hysteria, approximately 400,000 negroes had left the South, as "whole communities, entire streets of people and even church congregations, headed by their pastors, moved North and located as units in the important industrial centers."

Discussing the present movement the board reported that negroes had been induced to come North either by employers sending into southern states labor agents, who in turn employed local agents, by migrating friends who either voluntarily or upon request had spoken or written to friends in the South urging them to move.

Two definite problems, the board said had grown out of the migration. "First the relation between the white and negro races" and second housing.

Most Significant Story In Years— Van Loon's Version Of The Bible

VAN LOON'S OWN SKETCH OF DAVID BRINGING BACK GOLIATH'S HEAD.

DEAN REVIEWS
THE STORY OF THE BIBLE,
by Hendrik Van Loon (Boni, Liveright).

(Special to The Bee.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Hendrik Van Loon's "The Story of the Bible" within a few weeks probably will be the most discussed book in America. Indeed, Van Loon says his book is "a strange piece of work" and that he is "afraid of it."

"I have patiently read all of the 'modern Bibles,'" he says, "and the almost endless 'children's Bibles' of the last 30 years and none satisfied me for my own needs or for those of my sons."

Thus Van Loon sits down to write the story of the Bible as he has memorized it from many readings. He addresses it "Dear Boys," and then proceeds to tell the story as a patient parent would, seeking familiar words and phrases to bring the children into an intimate touch with Biblical characters.

This sense of intimacy is heightened further by 168 drawings which Van Loon drew. They are very simple things, like the crude drawings Roosevelt made to illustrate his letters to his children.

Undoubtedly Van Loon's story will be analyzed and through this scrutiny will come charges that he has colored certain passages to meet his own interpretations. Others will say that Van Loon has made an honest effort to tell a story unaffected by any cant or creed.

To this reader it seems that Van Loon must be taken at his word. He is telling the story of the Bible in the way which he believes will bring a better understanding to his boys. If his story contains any propaganda it is propaganda for the reading of the Bible. The first reaction on reading his tale is to turn to the Bible itself to make comparisons of certain passages.

Probably no passage in the Bible presents so vivid a picture to a boy's mind as the slaying of Goliath by David. In the twelfth chapter of Samuel it is written:

"And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slung it and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth."

"So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine and slew him; and there was no sword in the hand of David."

"Therefore David ran and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, they fled."

Here is Van Loon's version of the affair:

"But a small pebble from David's sling hit him right in the eye. Stunned by the blow, Goliath stumbled and fell and dropped his weapon."

"Quick as lightning David was upon him."

"He grabbed the giant's sword."

"He hacked at him with unexpected violence."

"With a single blow he cut off the monstrous head."

"He picked it up and carried it back to the jubilant soldiers."

I doubt if Van Loon's description is nearly so effective as the original. The impression has prevailed since boyhood that David put all his power into the slinging of that stone and crashed his foot to earth.

Now Van Loon would have me believe that it was only a small pebble that David cast and just through fortuitous circumstance it struck Goliath in the eye, causing the big fellow to stumble.

Any small boy might take a chance shot with a small pebble and hit a big brute in the eye. That is only a matter of luck. But David, according to the Bible, bravely went forth to meet his towering adversary. There was precision and force in the slinging of a stone of sufficient size to knock the big fellow unconscious. That is a matter of heroic Van Loon robs David of the romantic glamor that has encompassed him for centuries.

Even though Van Loon has lessened the noble attributes of some of the Biblical characters he has at the same time lessened the vices of others.

Lot's wife, for instance, didn't look back repeatedly. "She peeped just once." And of Joseph's affair with Potiphar's wife, he says she thought him "much better company than her own dull Egyptian husband" and discreetly adds that Joseph "kept at a respectful distance." He charitably refers to Rahab as one who was "not particular in her choice of friends."

The chief importance of Van Loon's story, it seems to me, is that he incites interest in the Bible. His book is not written for Protestants, Catholics or Jews. It is written for boys and for the parents of boys.

Considered in that attitude it is probably the most significant story that has appeared in America in years.

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Robber Kills Watchman and Wounds Another

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Edward Lehman, 18-year-old watchman was shot and instantly killed and A. C. Stenwadel, his companion, was shot through the arm by a burglar and his young girl companion early this morning. Lehman and Stenwadel, patrolling their district in a car, observed the man and girl tampering with a lock on a knitting factory. Lehman leaped out of the car and ran towards them. Both fired at him and Stenwadel, who was following him. It has not been determined whether the shots fired by the man or the girl killed Lehman. A neighbor woman, awakening by the shots saw the murderers run to a side street, beckon a waiting automobile, evidently driven by a confederate and speed away. The man and girl dived in through the curtains and their legs were still waving as the car whizzed away at terrific speed.

CONRADI BEING TRIED FOR DEATH OF RUSS ENVOY

(By The Associated Press.)
LAUSANNE, Nov. 5.—Maurice Conradi, Swiss engineer who on May 10 last, shot and killed Vasily Vorovsky, Soviet envoy to the second Lausanne conference, told of his determination to kill leading Bolsheviks in revenge for the suffering inflicted on his family in Russia, when examined today at the opening of his trial for the assassination of Vorovsky.

He accepted full responsibility for the crime telling the court:

"I had no need of encouragement but Polonnie agreed with me" when the judge asked if his alleged accomplice had not incited him. Paul Polonnie, a Russian, was secretary of the Russian Red Cross organization in Geneva under the Czarist regime.

Conradi said his plan of revenge was made at Galiopol when he learned that his father died of hunger in Russia and that his uncle and several members of his family had been killed by the Bolsheviks. He told in a clear voice how he had fired bullets from his pistol at Vorovsky. Conradi's preliminary examination finished, Polonnie was brought into court. He denied there was a widespread conspiracy to kill Vorovsky, as he alone knew of Conradi's plan and aided him only by supplying money.

The defense's efforts to raise technicalities by demanding that the marriage certificate of Madame Vorovsky and the birth certificate of her daughter be produced before the court and the authorities with the woman were admitted to the case.

Police documents were read to show that Vorovsky and his fellow delegate, Hermann Ahrens, who was wounded by Conradi had refused offers of special protection, but were nevertheless watched like the other delegates to the conference.

LIQUOR AGENTS ALL SCOUNDRELS SAYS W. FOULKE

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Reading a letter addressed to President Coolidge by the National Civil Service Reform League, of which he is president, William Dudley Foulke today in an address at the Union League club declared that the prohibition enforcement service is "honeycombed with the most unmitigated scoundrels in the world."

Political appointment of prohibition agents, the letter says, "creates a political partisan force, sure, as experience shows, to be incompetent, ineffectual, blind-eyed and black-maling."

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, it went on, turned out "corrupt Democratic officials" and put in their places "equally corrupt Republican officials on the recommendation of Congressmen."

WOOD'S LIFE IN DANGER

BY WALTER WILGUS

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
MANILA, Nov. 5.—The discovery of a bomb near the army pier which exploded, killing a Filipino laborer, lends credence to reports which have been current recently of plans to throw a bomb at Governor General Wood.

At the opening of the legislature the police took extraordinary precautions to protect Mr. Wood, as it was persistently reported that an attempt would be made on his life. The bomb discovered yesterday consisted of a copper globe five inches in diameter, with a detonator.

The month of November is "open season for Christians" in Mindanao, whether private citizens or soldiers. The Moros traditionally believe they will go to Heaven if they die within this period. This belief impels many Moros to commit heinous crimes against Christians, in the commission of which they do not stop at anything short of death which in this to them is most glorious.

The season is called "Maulod." During Maulod the Moros first dance attended the mosques and assemble in public places. During the season they eat only once daily, but they eat until they nearly burst. Even at the height of the merrymaking, however, they do not forget for a moment that they hate Christians. Let a Christian try to meddle during this period and whizz goes a boomerang splintering through the air, landing on the Christian's neck.

If these rows are held off until the end of the Maulods, the Moros may not fight at all.

It is believed that Mr. Wood in his efforts to hold a parley with the chiefs is keeping this in mind. But right now the Moros are in a fighting mood and seeing red.

Wills Strengthens His Campaign For Bout With Dempsey

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Adding another victim to his list in the campaign he has started to establish himself as a logical contender for Jack Dempsey's title, Harry Wills knocked out Jack Thompson, Boston negro, last night in the fourth round of a rough and tumble 12 round match but the "brown panther" of New Orleans gained little prestige by his victory in the opinion of most observers.

Wills outclassed his opponent, but Thompson proved to be an unexpectedly expert shock absorber, withstanding a terrific bombardment of hooks, upper cuts and swings before he went down in the fourth round. Floored once for a count of nine, he bobbed up and took a lot of additional punishment before toppling over for the last time, his seconds tossing a towel into the ring in token of defeat.

Thompson made a brief show of offense at the start of the third round but the few wild swings he landed did not damage Wills. Wills, with his superior agility and reach often jabbed Thompson about the head and body while he pummelled away and employed the "rabbit" punch as the Boston man sought to cover up.

Thompson absorbed Wills stiffest jolts for three rounds without going down. Occasionally, as in disdaining the power of his opponents punches, Thompson dropped his guard and let Wills land flush on his chin with rights and lefts that failed to budge him. Wills weighed 209 and Thompson 200.

SYRACUSE HOLDS 4 GRID RECORDS

(By The Associated Press)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Syracuse's undefeated football team holds four records in the eastern gridiron work as a result of game statistics it was to reveal.

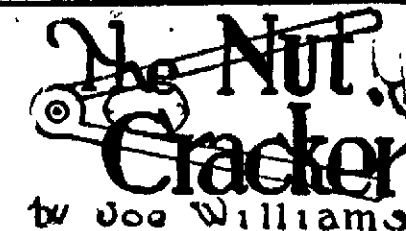

First—The Orange goal line is still uncrossed.

Second—Syracuse's six opponents to the present time, including Penn State, Pittsburgh and Alabama, gained a total of only ten first downs.

Third—MacHride, Orange fullback, holds the lead in eastern scoring by field goals with four to his credit.

Fourth—Bowman, halfback, is credited with a 100 yard run for touchdown in Syracuse's game with William and Mary. Bowman caught the first kickoff of the game while standing directing on Syracuse's goal line and raced the entire distance of the gridiron to score. Foley, Bowman's understudy, ran 97 yards to a touchdown in the same game.

Only three points have been scored by six opponents against Syracuse while the Orange has amassed 174. The three points were the result of a field goal scored by William and Mary.

"DEVILDOGS" HAVE FOUGHT 111 YEARS FOR UNCLE SAMUEL

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Leatherneck Luke's verse is not wholly fancy.

It's based on fact, though his arithmetic is a little bad. The Leatherneck and couple of gobs to which he alludes have been fighting Uncle Sam's battles not simply for a round century, in years, but for a total, to date, of 111 years.

for Uncle Sam in the last two score years, there or thereabouts could be found Neville, Pendleton or Feland, of the U. S. Marines—one or all of them.

These three officers, Major General Wendell C. Neville, Brigadier General Joseph H. Pendleton and outmaneuvered many attempts to retire him for bad eyesight. No retirement for him, he insists, until the age limit puts him out.

He has been service in the States, the Philippines, Guam, Alaska, Nicaragua, Cuba and Santo Domingo, serving as military governor in the latter land during the recent war when turbulent conditions on the island made it a possible base for German operations.

Neville's service hits the line hard for a record in variety and colorful experiences. He fought at Guantanamo and Cuzco, in Cuba, in '89 started for Mexico during the insurrection of 1900, but was diverted to help quell the Chinese Boxer uprising.

Gallant Leader

As a lieutenant colonel he commanded the Second Regiment of Marines at Vera Cruz in 1914. For conspicuous courage, coolness and skill was awarded the Medal of Honor.

It was as commander of the Fifth Marines in the World War, however, that Neville found out what modern fighting really means. He led this outfit in the Verdun and Chateau Thierry sectors, and at the head of the Fourth Brigade of Marines was

MAJ. GEN. W. C. NEVILLE

Brigadier General Logan Feland, grouped together in full uniform and service insignia, present a living color-card exhausting every hue and color of the spectrum.

Feland, who recently has been advanced to assistant to the major general commandant of the corps, is the Leatherneck referred to. He entered the service from Kentucky, without having ground on gratings and such for four years at Annapolis. Pendleton and Neville, however put in their apprenticeship at the Naval Academy.

The former was one of the youngest students ever enrolled there, being only 14 when he won his appointment in 1874. Neville was 19 when he entered in '86.

Their service score, in years, reads as follows: Pendleton, 49; Neville, 37; Feland, 25; total, 111.

Can't Retire Him
Pendleton, who commands the advanced marine base at San Diego, has

BRIG. GEN. LOGAN FELAND

in the thick of fighting near Soissons, the Champagne and the Meuse-Argonne.

Feland, without Naval Academy or West Point training, had only advanced from first lieutenant to major in 19 years, when he went to Europe on Pershing's staff in 1917. His experience, however, had been varied—Cuba, Philippines, Panama, Porto Rico, Venezuela, Santo Domingo, Mexico. When the Fifth Marines arrived in France, Feland was transferred to that regiment.

In quick succession—as the marines carved their fame in history at Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood and the Meuse-Argonne, Feland rose to lieutenant colonel, colonel and brigadier general.

Rises Rapidly

For his "energy, courage and disregard for personal safety," in voluntarily leading troops in action through heavy artillery and machine gun fire at Belleau Wood, Feland was awarded the D. S. C.

His other mementoes of fighting include the Navy Distinguished Service Medal, the French Legion of Honor, the Croix-de-Guerre (six times) and two citations in General Order. Neville's list of medals and citations is correspondingly imposing. Medal of Honor for his gallantry at Vera Cruz in 1914, the French Legion of Honor, the Croix-de-Guerre (four times) and the U. S. Army and the U. S. Navy Distinguished Service Medals. Neville is now commanding the Marine Corps department of the Pacific.

THE REAL TEST

—OF THE—

Danville Community Chest

The Community Chest has operated successfully for the past year. A large percentage of last year's pledges have been collected at a minimum cost. Some of the advantages of the Community Chest are:

- 1st.—The removal of the nuisance of multiplied annual campaigns.
- 2nd.—Reduction of the cost of raising and collecting funds for our essential institutions.
- 3rd.—Increase efficiency in the service rendered by the organizations included in the Community Chest. These institutions have been able to concentrate their energies on the service they render. Formerly much time and energy was wasted in raising and collecting funds.

YOU WOULD NOT APPROVE OF GOING BACK TO THE OLD WAY.

Certainly you would not approve of going back to NINE SEPARATE CAMPAIGNS to support these institutions that work for Danville.

The Test Of The Chest Is Your Willingness To Be Really Liberal

These organizations must have your continued support. Their budgets have been carefully studied and reduced to the minimum, in no case has any allowance been made for expansion.

These people with others who will form the band of volunteer workers believe in the Community Chest and are giving a week of their time to make it a success.

Hoppe and Cochran Tie For Title; Will Fight It Out Soon

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The 1923 world's championship at 18.2 ball line billiards lies between Willie Hoppe and Walter Cochran who will fight it out sometime soon, probably in Chicago.

As he always had done—with the exception of one year—when everything was at stake, Hoppe reacted to pressure last night and made an amazing uphill fight, winning a sensational match that forced into temporary oblivion young Jake Schaefer, 500 to 447. Cochran won his fourth game yesterday afternoon from Edouard Horemans 500 to 472, giving him a tie for the title.

Though last night's game was one of the most exciting in the history of the title the feature of the tournament was the spectacular playing of Cochran who defeated both Hoppe and Schaefer in the only games they lost and then dropped before Hagen-lacher, one of the weakest of the entries. Had Cochran defeated Hagen-lacher he would have won the title.

Cochran took the lead in the final in an uphill fight, closer than the Hoppe-Schaefer match. In his final victory of the tournament Schaefer had the best grand average for the tournament, 27.5-72 and Horemans made the highest run, 211. Hoppe made the second highest run, 170 and had the second highest average 26.24-35.

FRIENDLY MOB OF YOUNGSTERS ATTACK BABE

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Babe Ruth escaped mobbing by a happy throng of youngsters at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, this afternoon, by grabbing the tail of a mounted policeman's horse and being towed to the dressing rooms, while 2,000 or more tried to shake his hands or pat him on the back. It was the last appearance of the "big hit" in his barnstorming tour with his "All Stars" and he was given a most demonstrative farewell.

Ruth's team beat the Bushwicks team in the first game 4 to 3. The Babe made a home run. In the sixth inning of the second game with a man on first, Ruth singled, a towering fly which was lost in the darkness, and when the next hitter doubled the Babe scored, making a wonderful slide to the plate.

Darkness stopped the game, still tied, and then the mob rushed on the field. Remembering the friendly mobbing at Scarsden when 6,000 boys piled him, Ruth tried to escape. He was powerless in the throng. A mounted policeman came to his rescue, but the Babe couldn't get away till he seized the horse's tail and the cop started "in Memoriam" that till the dressing room. Then the boys gave way and the Babe, hairless and almost uniformless, was dragged to safety. The horse sustained no sprains.

COVINGTON IS CENTRE'S BIG HOPE ON GRID
LOUISVILLE, Nov. 5.—Herbert Covington of Centre College was one of the best young backs developed in the 1922 football season. Fast, brainy, tricky, the little star of the Praying Colonels, in his first fling at the collegiate game, proved himself an able successor to the great "Bo" McMillan.

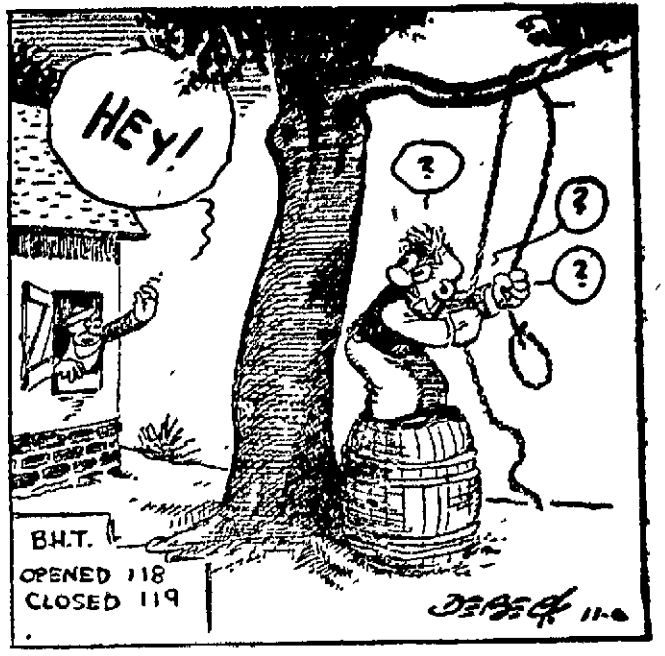

Covington, perhaps is faster than was McMillan. Down in old Kentucky they'll tell you that he hasn't a peer in the south when it comes to working his way through a broken field. He can dodge, sidestep, straight arm, et al. He can also shift and pivot. All in all he's a tough man to stop.

Covington, like McMillan, can also hurl passes. Long and accurate ones, too. He's a dangerous chap to have around whenever the overhead type of play is used. He throws 'em where they'll be caught as a general rule. He is likewise strong on the defense, being a deally tackler, and a hard fellow to evade.

The Centre ace has still another asset. A big one it is, at that. He can punt and drop or place kick. Fact is, he is a field goal booter de facto. He's "calm" every game the Praying Colonels were in last season. Covington negotiated a goal from the field. He got one against Harvard just when things looked gloomy for his team. And he drove them between three uprights on several other occasions though against less famous aggregations. As a field goal kicker, he ranked with the best in the country in 1922. Herbert Covington is at Centre College again this fall. Better than ever, so reports say. He is the hope of the Moran outfit, especially with "Red" Roberts out of a school. He looks ready for a big season.

Princeton Plays Harvard Games To Be Thrilling

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The annual meeting of Princeton and Harvard which takes place at Palmer Memorial Stadium, heads a list of Saturday football attractions that appear every bit as promising of stirring, stubborn play as transpired in last week's history making contests.

Coming with the great Crimson-Tiger perennial in claims for popular interest will be clashes involving Cornell and Columbia, Penn State and Georgia Tech, Yale and Maryland, Dartmouth and Brown, Pennsylvania and Lafayette.

Boston College and Centenary, Carnegie Tech and Detroit, Williams and Wesleyan, Army and Arkansas Aggie, Navy and St. Xavier, Rutgers and Richmond and West Virginia and Washington and Lee. While football students find no serious threat to the standing of the few remaining undefeated eleven, the final fate of the teams may be considerably affected through Saturday's play.

From the Harvard camp come declarations that the Crimson has been pointing its season for Saturday's game. Not since pre-war days has Harvard registered a victory over the Tiger, the games resulting in ties in 1919 and in 1920, and Princeton victories in 1921 and 1922, and Harvard men view that record with ill concealed chagrin. That Princeton is equally desirous of victory is the assertion of every Tiger supporter, and in consequence a bitter battle seems assured.

The Cornell-Columbia game at the Polo Grounds is unique in that it brings together the pupils of coaches of conservatism who have been declared leaders in their profession. Haughton, the Columbia mentor, won much a claim when serving as Harvard's coach and in late years Gilmer Dobie, the Cornell mentor, has been regarded by many as the leading football teacher in the East.

Yale's great display against Army and Maryland's recent defeat of Pennsylvania combine in assuring Yale Bowl patrons of a most interesting afternoon. The prospects in the games involving the several sturdy Pennsylvania colleges and universities are equally attractive.

Boston gridiron fans, with Harvard on the road, may turn to either of two engaging clashes on Saturday for at Fenway Park Dartmouth and Brown will meet in their annual contest and at Braves Field Coach Cavannah's powerful Boston College array will entertain the Centenary College eleven coached by "Bo" McMillan of recent Centre College fame.

West Virginia and Rutgers each play two games this week for they meet each other at the Polo Grounds tomorrow and on Saturday the Mountaineers will play Washington and Lee at Charleston, West Virginia, and Rutgers will meet University of Richmond at New Brunswick, N. J.

RICKARD SEEKS MATCH FOR JACK

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Tex Rickard today began negotiations to match Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight who knocked out Floyd Johnson last Friday night, with either Tom Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight or Harry Wills, negro title contender. Rickard has undertaken the negotiations in the interests of a New York newspaper Christmas fund. If arranged, the promoter plans to stage the match around holiday time possibly December 21, at Madison Square Garden.

Holds Record In High Jump

KATHERINE LEE
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Seventeen years old, an athlete for exactly one year, Katherine Lee of this city now looms as one of the most promising feminine sport contenders in the country.

Recently she established a world's record for women in the high jump, clearing the bar at 4 feet 10 1/2 inches. Later in an unofficial effort she bettered the performance with a 5 feet 1/2 inch jump.

She is also a broad jumper, pole vaulter and hurdle racer of exceptional ability. Experts predict she will be the greatest all-round woman athlete in the world within a year or so.

ZEVE, MY OWN AND RIALTO REACH PIMLICO

(By The Associated Press.)
PIMLICO RACE TRACK, BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 5.—Zev, My Own and Rialto, all of which went down to defeat at the heels of In Memoriam at Latonia last Saturday arrived here today, all apparently in excellent condition.

Although Zev and My Own are both eligible to start in the $10,000 Bow handicap here tomorrow, neither horse will be entered. My Own, it was said, however will probably be a contender in the Pimlico cup at two and a half miles Saturday.

British museum reading room contains 3,000,000 books on 35 miles of shelves.

London now has a shortage of children four and five years old.

HARRY WILLS GETS DECISION

(By The Associated Press.)
NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 5.—Harry Wills, negro, New Orleans heavyweight title contender, technically knocked out Jack Thompson, of Boston to-night in the fourth round of a 12-round match at the First Regiment Armory. Thompson's seconds threw a towel into the ring as he went down heavily for the second time in the round from a battering attack to the head and body.

For the first three rounds and most of the fourth Thompson withstood a terrific pummeling. He showed little effective offense himself but seemed able to absorb the hardest shocks of Wills' hooks and swings and came back for more.

Wills rushed out of his corner in the fourth intent upon ending the battle. He soon had Thompson groggy with slashing rights and lefts to the head and ribs. A right uppercut sent the Boston negro down to his knees and he took a count of nine. He arose only to meet another withering drive and reeled about the ring but it required a fusillade of careful timed punches before Wills was able to bring down his man. Referee Henry Lewis had counted three over the prostrate negro when a towel was thrown into the ring.

CHARLES RAY GETS BACK TO LEGITIMATE STAGE

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Charles Ray, motion picture actor, here today en route to New York, is leaving the films temporarily, he said, for his "first real love, the stage." Back in the east, in the legitimate, he will be an actor-manager.

Ray said he was discouraged with the movie situation because of censorship and other things but that he did not mean to imply that the movies "were going on the rocks."

"What we need is fewer productions," he declared. "The movie actor gets less than the actor in the legitimate business though the former doesn't work all season."

He called Hollywood a much-abused town. "Why, they even have baby goods stores there," he said.

Double mail boxes for the separation of local and other mail are being introduced in Washington, D. C.

Unbeaten Teams To Play At Polo Grounds Today

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Whether West Virginia or Rutgers is to retain its place among the undefeated eleven of the East will be determined today at the Polo Grounds.

Each eleven, although undefeated thus far, has been charged with a tie game, the Mountaineers, having been held 13 to 13 by Penn State, and Rutgers having barely stayed off defeat when it tied Lafayette, 6 to 6 through a brilliant run in the last few minutes of play.

SINCLAIR SAYS ZEVE JUST MET BETTER HORSE

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Harry F. Sinclair, who was in Chicago today with a party of friends, still clung to his original statement made after the race at Latonia Saturday, that for one day at least Zev had met a better horse. Colonel J. W. Zevverly, the Oklahoma oil operator, for whom Zev was named, accompanied Mr. Sinclair and appeared to be more disappointed over the horse's defeat than did Mr. Sinclair.

Zev and My Own were shipped from Latonia today, both going to Maryland, where, according to Mr. Sinclair, Zev will start at least once more this year, and may engage in two or three races at the Maryland tracks. My Own is also eligible to some of these stakes and if Admiral Grayson cares to start him again this year it is possible the pair may meet again before the fall season ends.

Mr. Sinclair would not confirm or deny the report that he had lost $63,000 on Saturday's race. "Zev never looked better to me than he did before Saturday's race," he said. "He came out of it in good condition and I have no excuses to offer."

MIAMI BOOSTERS

MIAMI, Fla., boosters are trying to induce some major league club to train there this spring. When it comes to climate, Miami is all that could be desired. No club has trained there since Cincinnati did their stunts in 1920.

MR. WOO FLING LUMM, HE FLINGS A NASTY PASS

One of the most promising young footballers in the Chicago district is Woo Fling Lumm, or Charley Lumm, to give him his real name. Lumm is a full-blooded Chinese and is the star of the Tilden High School eleven. No better handler of the forward pass has been developed in Chicago's high school circles this season.

HIRAM JOHNSON MAY ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY SOON

(By Chicago Tribune Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, California, probably will announce his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination within the next week, according to a statement issued today by Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Pennsylvania millionaire, who was Johnson's chief financial backer in the 1920 primary campaign.

Strassburger's statement vigorously assailed the prospective candidacies of President Coolidge and Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania and clearly indicated his willingness to call back Johnson to a greater role than he did in 1920.

"It is believed," the statement said, "Senator Johnson will announce his candidacy for the presidency within the next week, in response to calls being made by many Republican leaders in eastern states and elsewhere."

"There is no doubt that should Governor Pinchot become a real aspirant for the Republican nomination for president, Strassburger could bring great aid to the organization, which it is opposed to the governor's ambition, which it would be very likely to do. With Senator Johnson as a Pinchot rival in Pennsylvania, tremendous strength would be wielded against Pinchot, and an unbroken delegation to the national convention, as Johnson is one of the ablest campaigners in the country and always has life issues and substantial support. It is thought Strassburger regards Governor Pinchot as hardly of presidential timber.

The statement assails the administration's foreign policy as "a feeble and wobbling" and concludes: "As it stands at present, the foreign situation, with its possibilities for renewed conflict, is only a hollow mockery of the idea of a permanent world peace of the League of Nations brand, in the view of the forward-looking Americans who are ready to endorse Hiram Johnson for the nomination for president in 1924."

They hold the nation owes Johnson a debt of gratitude in keeping it out of the League of Nations, and that the nation's policy will offer him a well-earned and its greatest honor—a man of original brain, of constructive capacity, who as president will be a positive and never a negative figure; one who will lead a foreign policy that will settle the settlement question of a weary world and settle it right, not with the old weapons borrowed from England but by speaking to the French in their own language. Times like these demand the kind of president that Hiram Johnson, in the view of the Johnson forces organizing for action, is destined to become."

The hint that collects in the working parts of the senator's machine may be blown out with a bicycle or automobile pump.

—Miss Bertha Wilson and Miss Fannie Wilson of Danville, N. C., spent Saturday in Danville.

This Little World

By HARRY B. HUNT
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Congestion of automobile traffic in the downtown section of the larger cities has become a barrier to trade, merchants are finding. Shoppers who drive their own cars either hesitate to brave the perils of the downtown jam or are unable to find parking space for their vehicles. So they are turning more and more to the small shops and outlying stores for their purchases.

In the "metropolitan area" of downtown Washington there is a police regulation preventing parking for more than 30 minutes. And what woman can "shop" in 30 minutes?

So this store operates a big, roomy automobile bus which makes the rounds of the outer limits of the restricted parking area. Would-be shoppers simply park their cars in the uncongested, non-restricted streets and then ride the store's bus downtown. When their buying is done the bus takes them to the outlying section, where they pick up their own cars and proceed home.

If you have in your town an organization known as the "Alfalfa Club" do not be misled into the belief that it is a body of farmers interested in the culture of that prolific forage plant, alfalfa.

"The Alfalfa clubs," says Harry V. Haynes, president of the Investment Bankers' Association, "are so-called because of the established botanical fact that the alfalfa plant will go farther for a drink than any other known growth."

On his first introduction at one of these organizations, Haynes says, he "experienced a frost so severe almost as to result in chilblains."

He had been mistaken for Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Secretary Mellon of the treasury got the full strength of the spotlight the other night at the banquet of a visiting bankers' organization.

Mellon is, personally, the most timid and retiring man ever known in politics. He was watching the proceedings quietly from a box at one side of the big room, doubtless wishing himself at home in his own study, when a bob-haired, décolleté clad young woman danced into his enclosure, smiled, extended inviting arms and sang: "We Love You, Andy."

Yes, they got the spotlight. But even his revealing rays did not disclose a trace of pleasure on the face of the distinguished secretary.

Alberta Throws Dry Law Into Discard

Voters Bring Back Whisky and Beer to Be Handled Under Control to Government.

(By The Associated Press.)
CALGARY, Alberta, Nov. 6.—Alberta today was in that list of Canadian provinces that has thrown prohibition into the discard, having voted yesterday to permit sale of liquor under government control and regulation of the government and to allow the sale and consumption of beer on licensed premises and in the home although complete returns from yesterday's elections had not been received. The result showed a decisive majority for proposition "D" one of the four the voters had to choose from in expressing their opinions as to how and where intoxicants should be sold or drunk. The result indicated that the voters were well pleased with the system in vogue in other provinces where the liquor business is managed by the government.

The various degrees of prohibition the electorate had to choose from included one that would have permitted the present "bone dry" law; another that would have permitted sale of beer in licensed hotels and other premises; a third to permit government sale of beer for consumption in private residences and the fourth which was chosen to permit government sale of all liquors.

A feature of the early returns was noted in the fact that the first proposition, calling for absolute prohibition, was second in the number of votes received, only a comparative few voting for the beer measure. This was pointed out, indicated that the majority favoring prohibition favored complete prohibition while those against it were against it entirely.

Latest available returns showed 60,568 favoring government sale of liquor, 42,963 favoring complete prohibition, 3,114 for licensed sale of beer and 2,348 for government sale of beer. Only about half the voting places had been heard from but these represented approximately 75 per cent of the vote and the remaining returns were not expected to materially change the per centage.

Rural voters, it was noted, showed about the same sentiments as did those in the cities.

Says Rum Running Greatest Criminal Problem U. S. Has Ever Faced On Seas

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Rum-running presents the great problem in prohibition enforcement, Mrs. J. M. Walker, Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of enforcement prosecutions declared in her annual report today to Attorney-General Daugherty. The report also commented on the light sentences given jury law violators in some federal courts as compared with those imposed in other courts.

"The liquor smuggling business," said Mrs. Willebrandt, "is the biggest criminal problem the United States has ever faced on the high seas. The coast guard is our police force within our territorial waters and is assisted by the customs officers and the United States Marshals and their deputies of the department of justice in the coastal states. The coast guard is the only force having equipment to deal with smuggling on the high seas and observation is convincing that this equipment is not sufficient to suppress it along our long Atlantic and Pacific coast lines."

While no precise estimate of amount of liquor smuggled in could be obtained, the report said, an indication of the amount was seen in imports to and exports from nearly British possessions. Official data, it was said, showed that liquor shipments from Nassau alone—and all said to be destined to the United States—were valued at $7,095,294 during the last fiscal year while importations there totaled $4,500,000, the difference being held to represent bootleggers' profits from operations at this one point.

Citing the difference in federal court punishments for prohibition violation, Mrs. Willebrandt said that the average jail sentence imposed in the eastern Kentucky district was 37 days as compared with an average sentence of only 21 hours in the western Kentucky district.

Speed in disposing of prohibition cases has been urged upon district attorneys, she reported, and use of the "padlock" provisions of the prohibition act has been extended.

Summarizing all tax and other proceedings handled by her office, the assistant attorney general reported many cases decided by the government. More than a thousand cases under the pure food law were terminated during the year.

Preliminary To Big Fight On Prohibition Started In England

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Nov. 6.—Almost everyone in England feels that some day in the future this country will be the scene of a big fight over the prohibition question. Both sides are already busy following from soap boxes and lecture platforms, and spreading printed propaganda here and there.

To the side of the prohibitionists come Professor Ernest H. Starling, University College, London, with a book on "The Action of Alcohol on Man."

"The work of the community," he contends, "is carried out almost entirely by men with whom the moderate use of alcohol is habitual."

"We have only to look at the leaders in every walk of life. In each group we find a small handful who are total abstainers, but a census would probably give over 90 per cent who habitually partake of small doses of alcohol. Health is in most people a necessary condition of success, and most of the members of the leading groups of society enumerated are distinguished not only by their good general health, but also by the fact that they live to a ripe old age."

Dry dinners are an awful bore to everyone, the Professor seems to think, and the merriment is obviously forced. But an ordinary feast of which alcoholic drinks form a part is ever "distinguished by a natural flow of spirits and good fellowship."

"A man may go to such a dinner full of the cares and work of the day, with little or no interest in those he has to meet, whose occupations may be very diverse from his own, nervous of making any remarks to his neighbors for fear of making himself ridiculous or saying something in which they are not interested. After the first glass of champagne is drunk the conversation, instead of being spasmodic and forced, becomes general and free; the self-consciousness and preoccupation of each man with his own affairs becomes lessened."

DIETERS' BODY IS NOT FOUND

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—District Attorney Dodd, in Brooklyn, today stepped into the police investigation of the disappearance Saturday of Richard Dieters, a wealthy engineer who threatened by a wealthy engineer who accused him, she said, of having obtained letters sent to the engineer by a woman.

A woman deputy district attorney was sent to the home of a Brooklyn engineer to obtain a statement.

Dieters, a telephone operator at the Crescent Athletic Club, whose membership list contains many prominent names, has not been seen since he left his home Saturday.

Yesterday his coat and cap were found on the promenade of Manhattan Bridge. Mrs. Dieters started the investigation of the disappearance with the words:

"If he commits suicide, a wealthy man who persecuted him in an endeavor to recover letters he accused my husband of stealing was to blame."

The police today made a vain search of the River for Dieters' body. They would not admit that they believed him dead.

Mrs. Dieters told District Attorney Dodd that the engineer had shown her husband a pistol at 2:30 last Saturday afternoon and had said to him: "Now, Dick, I want those letters back by 4 o'clock today, or—"

The engineer named by Mrs. Dieters was questioned by attaches of the district attorney's office when he appeared there yesterday. He appeared to be in a state of confusion. Mrs. Dieters was said to have identified the engineer as the man who had displayed the pistol to her last Saturday.

LAFOLLETTE IS FULL OF IDEAS

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Full of ideas and fight, Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, leader of the radical bloc in Congress, returned to Washington today after a long trip through Europe.

One of his first acts probably will be the calling of a conference of his radical colleagues to prepare a program for the approaching session of Congress. Some of his followers are already in the city and others are expected to arrive within the next few days. The program probably will include repeal of the Commins-Esch railroad law, revision of the taxes, recognition of Russia's political and amnesty for all political prisoners.

The bloc undoubtedly will discuss thoroughly how it can make the best use of the balance of power which it holds in both Houses.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 6.—Cold weather in the belt and a much higher Liverpool market than new put the price of cotton to new high records for the season today, the active months rising 24 to 35 points in the first half of the business. December reached up to 32.77. Much buying was stimulated by reports from Oklahoma that continued cold weather would make bollies out of most of the cotton remaining in the field.

British Whisky Ship Is Captured

(By The Associated Press.)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—A tale of three deep sea "high jackers," who captured one by one of the crew of the British schooner Louise F., was brought here late last night by federal authorities, who captured the schooner after an exciting three-hour chase down the coast of Florida. Although the "high jackers" had left the ship and were still free early today, the federal officers reported the capture of the vessel, its crew and 3900 cases of liquor valued at $375,000.

According to the tale told by the crew, they were captured one at a time last Tuesday and forced into the forecastle by the second engineer and two stewards and later used to help man the vessel. When captured by the federal authorities they said they had put to sea believing the ships bearing the federal men to be liquor pirates. The prohibition men reported on the arrival here.

The capture of the Louise F. was made inside the 12-mile limit off South Pablo Beach and Captain H. A. Johnson and six members of the crew were taken into custody. They were expected to arrive in Jacksonville today where, according to prohibition officials, they will be charged with violating the national prohibition act and the custom laws.

Search for the Louise F. began yesterday morning when three negroes told Sheriff E. E. Boyce, of St. Johns county that they had been members of the crew of the vessel, which had been captured by mutineers and that they had escaped while landing liquor on the beach.

UPHOLD ACTION IN DENYING INJUNCTION

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the action of Federal Judge Winslow in denying the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, an injunction restraining the International Magazine Company from publishing in Hearst's International an alleged exposure of the Klan in articles written by Norman Hapgood.

Motive For Killing Of Coburn Secret

Alleged Klan Publicity Agent Shoots to Death Attorney For Insurgent Faction of Ku Klux Klan.

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Still maintaining silence today regarding the motive behind the killing of W. S. Coburn, attorney for the so-called insurgent faction of the Ku Klux Klan, Philip E. Fox, publicity representative of the Klan, was expected to be taken before a grand jury here today as the next step in proceedings against him in connection with the shooting of Coburn in his office late yesterday.

Fox, said to be editor of the Knight Hawk, a Klan publication, refused throughout the case. He was held incommunicado under heavy guard and without bond on a charge of murder.

There were two eyewitnesses to the shooting, according to the police. Mrs. M. A. Holbrook, Coburn's stenographer and Mrs. Oscar Weyman, of Cleveland, Ohio, a client, were in the office at the time of the shooting. They said Fox fired four shots and that Coburn applied to his chair, and as Fox threw down his revolver after the last shot and turned and left the office. Both said that Fox made no statement before he opened fire. Mrs. Holbrook said that Fox had visited the office a few moments earlier, and that he had been talking to her about the case. He was held incommunicado under heavy guard and without bond on a charge of murder.

Fox, when he was arrested, was quoted as saying:

"I am sorry to have had to do it. I am glad he is dead. He was planning to run me and I had just come to him. What I did had no connection with the Ku Klux Klan."

Fox said that he was not connected with the Klan when he was taken into custody, but newspaper men identified him as the publicity agent of the insurgent faction of the Klan, and the police produced a copy of the Knight Hawk which bore his name as editor. It was said.

Dr. Fred B. Johnson, of San Antonio, Texas, issued a statement to the effect that Fox had visited him at the home of Dr. W. J. Sumners, the night before and announced that he had been sent there to kill him (Johnson). According to Dr. Johnson's statement, Fox said also that he had been sent to kill Coburn.

Coburn was born in Savannah, Ga., in 1876 and after graduating from the public schools there he became connected with the Old Southwest Railway, which was in the railroad service several years.

Captain Coburn won his military title by service in the national guard and went to the Mexican border as a captain, serving in the coast guard and in 1917 until Camp Wheeler was established at Macon, Ga. He was stationed there for more than a year and went overseas early in the fall of 1918. He saw action in the final days of the war and was wounded twice in action, once being reported being dead.

Such Few Issues Involved, There Is Little Chance to See Which Way Political Winds Will Blow.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—With few issues having a bearing on the next presidential campaign involved in today's off year election, there will be little in the results to indicate which way the national political winds are blowing.

Only one new member of the Senate is to be elected. He will come from Vermont to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Dillingham, whose term would have expired in 1927. Porter H. Dale, Republican and Park H. Pollard, Democrat, a cousin of President Coolidge, are candidates for the place. The prohibition issue is involved Dale favoring enforcement, Pollard advocating modification of the Volstead act. Vermont, normally is Republican and political wizards say there are no signs of an upheaval.

Seven new representatives will be elected. Congress four in New York and one each in Illinois, Vermont and North Carolina. Six of the Congressional elections are to fill vacancies caused by deaths and one to fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Dale, Vermont.

In Illinois and North Carolina the Democratic candidates will have no major party opposition. Slight interest has been manifested in the other races, with the possible exception of the twenty-fourth New York district where a close vote is forecast.

Thomas A. Doyle, Democrat has slight opposition in Illinois, where he seeks the place left vacant by John W. Rainey, Democrat. In North Carolina Judge John A. Kerr is unopposed to succeed the late Representative Claude Kitchin. Ernest W. Gibson, Republican and Burton Bailey, Democrat, are candidates in Vermont.

Three states—Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky—will elect governors.

New York, New Jersey, Virginia and Maryland will elect members of the state legislature. Philadelphia will hold a municipal election.

BULGARIAN CITY RAISES MONEY FOR SCHOOLS BY SUBSCRIPTION

AITOS, Bulgaria, Nov. 6.—Because of the lack of funds on account of its heavy expenditures for reparations and other post-war purposes, this city is building the necessary additional school accommodations by public subscription.

The subscriptions are being paid in the form of money and building materials of various kinds. Thus far more than 500,000 levas have been contributed in cash and material, and the subscription campaign is being actively pushed by citizens' committees.

Recently the local board of education laid with an elaborate civic ceremony the foundation stone of a primary school in the "Strandja" quarter. Both in the collection of funds and in the actual labor of school building, the school children of both sexes are taking an active part.
